The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: On page 8, third line from the bottom "Fig. 3" should be changed to –Fig. 2—as this is where the holes 160 are labeled.

Appropriate correction is required.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-6, 15, 26 and 27 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over McCay (U.S. Patent 6,283,276) in view of Laxo (U.S. Patent 2,455,127).

McCay shows all the element of the claimed envelope insert conveyor except a gripping element disposed adjacent an indented portion. However, shown by Laxo is such a gripping element 33 disposed adjacent an indented portion 29. To include such a gripping element onto McCay's holder 40 would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art as it would keep the conveyed articles from sliding off to the side.

Re claim 2, McCay shows sprockets 15 and 20 and chains 30.

Re claim 3, the gripper 33 of Laxo is for resiliently biasing the articles toward the opposite surface.

Re claim 4, McCay's pusher members 40 are connected to chains 30 with downwardly projecting members.

Re claim 5, the pusher members are uniformly spaced.

Re claim 6, sheets of paper are received.

Re claim 15, McCay's conveyor is designed to be used with an insert machine.

Re claim 26, McCay shows paired sidewalls and a cross member as well as downwardly protruding portions for attachment to the chains.

Re claim 27, the protruding portions correspond to the chain links in order that they might be securely attached.

Claims 7-14, 16-25, 28 and 29 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. The cited art shows different types of pushers.
